In 1890, a group of French Dominicans founded the École Biblique et Archéologique Française de Jérusalem, a research center dedicated to the study of the Bible and the Holy Land. For over a century, the École Biblique has been a leading center for biblical scholarship and archaeological research, and its work has helped to shed light on the history and culture of the region.

From Petra to the École Biblique tells the story of the École Biblique and its work in the Holy Land. The book is written by André Paul and Michelle Favreau-L'Hostis, two of the École Biblique's leading scholars. Together, they have written a comprehensive and engaging account of the École Biblique's history, its research, and its impact on the study of the Bible and the Holy Land.

The book is divided into three parts. The first part tells the story of the École Biblique's founding and early years.
